What to Expect at a Consultation in our Homoeopathy Student Training Clinic.

Homoeopathy Student Training Clinic

The aim of the Student Training Clinic is to provide extensive clinical training to our students, and to provide an affordable homoeopathic service to the public at heavily subsidised costs.

The clinic allows our Homoeopathy students to gain confidence and self assurance as they develop practical skills, observe and treat patients, and learn a range of skills including Homoeopathic diagnosis, treatment, dispensing, communication skills and safe practice.

The clinic enables students to combine their theoretical knowledge with practical experience as an integral part of their training. Each of our Homoeopathy students must complete 250 hours of clinical practice in to complete their qualifications.

About Homoeopathy

Homoeopathy is a system of healthcare that was developed by a German physician and chemist, Dr Samuel Hahnemann (1755-1843), based on the principle of "like cures like". He found that illnesses could be cured by a substance that causes similar symptoms in a healthy person.

Remedies are derived from many different substances found in nature and are prepared in a unique manner called 'potentisation'. This preparation enhances the remedies medicinal properties and works by stimulating the body's own power to overcome illness and restore health.

Homoeopathic Medicine can be used to treat a wide range of ailments, skin complaints such as eczema and psoriasis, stress, fatigue, arthritis, asthma, depression, influenza, colds, hay fevers, sinus, migraines, headaches, constipation, aches, pains, emotional or hormone related problems etc.

Each patient is treated as an individual, with their own unique presentation and prescriptions are tailored to meet the specific needs identified in each case. Because of the in-depth nature of the consultations and treatment, most people suffering from both short-term and long-term illness benefit from the Homoeopathic treatment administered in our clinic.

Student Training Clinic Consultation

As the whole symptom picture is treated, the student practitioner will ask many and varied questions relevant to case taking and homoeopathic analysis. To help find the right remedy, information is required about physical, mental and emotional symptoms along with history and often some family history.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

How long are the consultations?

Initial consultations take approximately 1.5 hrs, return visits approximately 30-45 mins and acute complaints such as flu, sore throats etc approximately 30-45 mins.

Will there be students sitting in on my consultation?

There are normally several people in the consultation: the student practitioner taking the case, the supervisor and student observers. Everyone will be working together to study the case and provide the best treatment for you.

Are there cameras or recording devices?

As this is a student training clinic, sometimes a camera is used for a small number of students observing from an adjacent consulting room. The student practitioner will indicate if this is going to happen. Please note that consultations are not recorded.

When do I get my medicine?

As there are over 4,000 homoeopathic remedies it is likely that in many cases a remedy will not be given on the day as the students work with the supervisor to ensure the most appropriate prescription. The most suitable time and manner to obtain the remedy is discussed at the end of the session. On some occasions, a second consultation may be required in order to make a thorough analysis before prescribing.

What about privacy and my personal information?

As Nature Care College Homoeopathy Training Clinic is a training facility, it may at times be necessary for a student to discuss a case in a supervision group or case-management class. Patient's names and other easily identifying information are not disclosed and only those details relative to the case study are discussed within the context of training.
